GOVERNMENT MAY ADOPT USE OF FAYETTE COUNTY MAN'S GUN

War Department Now Seriously Considering Machine Gun Question

LEWIS TYPE PROVES POPULAR

British and Belgian Forces in War Abroad Have Given Good Test—More Than 30,000 Purchased Lately By British Government

Whether a Fayette county man's type of machine gun be accepted by the government or the guns in use now be continued is a question that the United States War Department is deciding. Colonel Isaac Newton Lewis, U. S. Army, retired is the inventor of the machine gun over which there is now a furor in war departments. Its efficacy was forcibly brought to the attention of the government by reason of the success the Belgian army had with its use in famous battles during the first of the present war, and the later use of the gun by the English forces.

The other type of gun considered is that of the old model Vickers and the Benet-Mercier or Springfield Secretary of War Baker said that in a few days he would make known steps that he had decided to take with reference to the machine gun question.

The Lewis gun has many friends, among whom is Major General Leonard Wood. More than 30,000 of the guns have been purchased by the British government. Owing to its light weight it is declared to be especially suitable for aeroplane fighting.

Colonel Lewis lately has been living in New York. A few weeks ago he visited his brother and other relatives in Uniontown and Fayette county.

WILL USE SPLASH BOARDS GENERALLY TO INCREASE STAGE

Just back from a trip up the Allegheny river, the U. S. Steamer Slackwater, Captain James T. Nutt left today for a cruise as far up the Monongahela as Lock No. 10 at Morgantown for the purpose of putting splash boards on a number of the dams. Placing the splash boards will deepen the water considerably in the upper pools. The Slackwater spent eight weeks in the Allegheny valley, during which time she was engaged at Lock No. 2 on the Allegheny river doing a considerable amount of repairs to the lock. New valves and shafting were placed and additional machinery installed. Splash boards were placed on the dam at that point, increasing the depth so as to make a good boating stage as far as Lock No. 3 at Springdale. The principal traffic from there is sand and gravel, which is on the increase.

MURDER INQUEST REVEALS LITTLE

Coroner's Jury Finds Mammoma Met Death at Hands of Unknown

STORY OF KILLING IS TOLD

About all that was learned when the coroner's inquest was held this morning into the death of Tony Mammoma at Bentleyville, was that he met death at the hands of an unknown assassin who shot him while he was at work for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Weaver, Monday, September 11. Coroner James T. Heffran conducted the inquest.

Three witnesses were heard, Claril Chiara who was working with Mammoma when the murder occurred, William Sands, section foreman in charge of the gang and Dr. A. N. Booth, who performed the post mortem. The state police and Pennsylvania Railroad police department were represented at the inquest.

The story told by Chiara and Sands has been narrated before. Both said they were at work when they heard a shot. They saw Mammoma fall and glancing upward over the cut where they were they saw an unknown with a shotgun. "That's my man," he was quoted as having said, as he ordered them to stand back. Both said he reloaded and fired twice again, though the first shot took effect. After the shooting he coolly walked away. State police, county officers and P. R. R. men are working up clues.

Children who will be six years old before the first of May next will be admitted as beginners, but they must be vaccinated and present certificates. Principals will be at the various school buildings Thursday afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30 to enroll beginners. Parents are being urged to bring in their children then.

Friday will be devoted to the work of giving out books and placing the pupils. All pupils are asked to report to the rooms they left at the close of last term and proper promotions and adjustments will be made then. The enrollment will be so arranged and the books given out so that the regular class work will begin Monday without interruption.

The state quarantine established by reason of the infantile paralysis epidemic which raged during August and the forepart of the month ends on September 29. As a result nearly all the schools in the western end of the state are planning to get their year's work under way then.

FOUR CITIES LUTHER LEAGUES HOLD RALLY

Delegates Attend From Monongahela, Donora and Monessen—Lutheran Congregation Rally Tonight

Thursday night's program at the Christ Lutheran church observance of its fifteenth anniversary resolved itself into an interesting rally of the Four-Cities Lutheran league with delegates present from Monongahela, Donora, and Monessen societies. Rev. J. Elmer Bittle, D. D. missionary superintendent of the Pittsburgh Synod made the address of the evening, and President Furer of the Pennsylvania Lutheran league of Pittsburgh gave a short talk. A musical feature was a violin solo by Miss Norma Bosson, with Miss May Barth as accompanist. At a social hour lunch was served by young women of the church.

Tonight a big rally of the congregation and friends of the church will be held. Five minute addresses will be made by Charleroi pastors and Miss Bosson will play a violin solo. This will be the night of the ingathering of money during the present campaign.

WHAT ABOUT IT?

Announcement that "where are greatly needed for the United States are suffering from a lack of resources and an unusual situation. Other evidence is furnished by the stock reports showing the upward trend of stock prices and the fact that stocks are being sold every day after day until there seems no limit. Business in Charleroi is better than it ever was before.

But will the prosperous times continue after the war is over? Could they last with no trade restrictions?
No one can forecast with any degree of certainty the future, simply because there is nothing dependable on which to base predictions. Europe's bloody history has been written after such a manner as to discourage all attempts to read ahead. There must however be trade restrictions to protect America while Europe is reconstructing. That is the plan outstanding fact which the United States must face.

THE MEXICAN CONFERENCE.

That the Mexican conference at New London is devoted chiefly to marking time is becoming daily more evident. Saturday, September 6, being the Mexican Independence day, the entire conference took a holiday.
It is evident, however, that President Wilson purposes to have proclaimed on the eve of the election some form of "agreement" which can be utilized to support the contention that he has settled the Mexican situation by peaceful methods, by the way, which have cost the lives of more Americans than did the entire Spanish War, and which doubtless will entail fully as large a pension list. The American commissioners state that, since the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico has been laid aside, the time of the commissioners has been devoted to learning the social and economic conditions in Mexico, a subject on which there were numerous American army officers and diplomats who easily could have informed them, although they would have drawn a less rosy picture than the Carranza commissioners and who therefore, were not appointed on the commission.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A printer tells this: In the old days when a typo laid off he had to provide a substitute. A printer named Jenks, wanting to lay off, was compelled to persuade a man who was not a printer to take his place at the case, explaining to him that he could be taken suddenly sick and get away from the office before the fraud was discovered.

Shortly after the fake substitute lined up before the case with its curious little boxes full of loose type, he was seized with fake pains.

"What's the matter with you?" asked the foreman, coming to his side.
"I don't know," said the fake printer. "I'm terribly sick. I can't work.
You can see that. I'll have to close up for the night."

And he reached up and turned the

MOVED THE LOGGAN STONE.

Then He Had The Costly Job of Moving It Back Again.

Do you know what happens to the world that there is nothing in its past so mysterious as that you ever hear the story of the British naval lieutenant who was demonstrated the fact that there was nothing supernatural about the Loggan stone? Out there at the mouth of Loch Lomond, close to where the waters of the sea are used to hold forth the huge mass of rock rested on the top of the hill, so carefully placed that it was the time it fell that it was said that a gust of wind would set it to vibrating and yet for hundreds of years it had been believed that it could not be moved. It was not until a few years ago that it was found that it was not so solid as it was supposed to be. Then along came the lieutenant, who, with a small army of men, would move it. He would move it to the place of the Loggan stone and the Loggan stone would be moved into the sea by the physical process of a few sturdy sailors.

In 1877 for his position in the navy of the majesty, George IV, the lieutenant succeeded only in moving the Loggan stone a little way down the hill, where it lodged in a sheltering cave, for such a hole was not only not from the gales and tavern people who made a living off of the tourists who came to see the quivering boulder, but from the antiquaries and scientists who felt that the rock had been deliberately placed there by the Druid priests or that it illustrated a little understood force of nature, that the admiralty sent word to the impudent young officer that he would either restore the Loggan stone to its place or forfeit his. A derick and a month's salary were required to set the stone in its place.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ANTIQUITY OF CHEESE.

The Bible Mentions It, as Do Homer and Other Early Writers.

Cheese and curdling of the milk are mentioned in the book of Job. David was sent by his father, Jesse, to carry ten cheeses to the camp and to look how his brother fared. "Cheese of line" formed part of the supplies of David's army at Mahanaim during the rebellion of Absalom.

Homer says that cheese formed part of the ample stores found by Ulysses in the care of the Cyclop Polyphemus.
Euripides, Theocritus and other early poets mention cheese. Ludolphus says that excellent cheese and butter were made by the ancient Ethiopians, and Strabo states that some of the ancient Britons were so ignorant that, though they had abundance of milk, they did not understand the art of making cheese.

There is no evidence that any of these ancient nations had discovered the use of rennet in making cheese.
They appear to have merely allowed the milk to sour and subsequently to have formed the cheese from the case-ous part of the milk after expelling the serum or whey.

As David when too young to carry arms was able to run to the camp with ten cheeses, ten loaves and an ephah of parched corn, the cheeses must have been very small.

Wonderful Earrings.

The earrings of Biote, the daughter of Aristotle, which were found in Chalcis, where the young woman was buried, represented doves swinging in golden hoops. The miniature birds were marvelously wrought, the feathers of granulated gold, the wings and breasts enriched with bands of color supplied by inserted gems. Precious stones gleamed like tiny sparks for the eyes. Daintiest device of all, the tail feathers were so finely made and curiously adjusted as to move at the slightest motion of the pendent hoop, so that whenever the proud wearer should toss or shake her head her two attendant doves would seem to balance themselves upon their perches, as live birds do in swinging on a bough. They were found by exploring archaeologists.

Overpowered.

"Are you sure you are strong enough to carry this trunk up three flights of stairs?" asked the maiden lady of the roustabout she had summoned.
"Sure, mum," he responded heartily.
"How much do I get out of it?"
"Why, if you don't break anything or spoil the walls I'll give you 10 cents."
"Sorry, mum, but I couldn't git away wid dat heavy trunk."
"Why, a minute ago you were sure you were strong enough."
"I was, but yer generosity has made me weak."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Ancient Memory.

In the ancient time men's memories were much more powerful than they are today. The invention of printing necessarily weakened the memory.
We can scarcely form an idea of what the memory must have been when it was exercised and cultivated as a thing of sole dependence.—New York Ameri-

Conquering the Cobra.

It has been known thousands of years that the dreaded deadly cobra, whose bite invariably and almost instantly causes death, may be easily paralyzed and tranced by a very slight finger squeeze around the back of its fearful neck.

Frank.

"Ernest is awfully frank."
"Do you love him because he is frank?"
"No; because he is Ernest."

LITTLE COAL BEING LOADED NOW FOR SOUTHERN MARKETS

Pittsburg District Manufacturing Concerns Using Entire Supply—Rains Make Good Shipping Stage.

Scarcely if any coal is being mined or loaded in the upper Monongahela valley for southern markets at present. Manufacturing plants in and around Pittsburg are consuming all the supply.

Increased the stage of water in the river pools and shipments have increased considerably, hindered only by a scarcity of miners to operate the up river mines, according to a report among rivermen along the Monongahela.

FAMILY DINNERS.

In England They Flourish Mainly at Weddings and Funerals.

Family dinners are rare in England. They flourish only at weddings and at funerals, especially at funerals, for mankind collected enjoys woe. But other occasions—birthdays and Christmas—are shunned. Christmas especially, in spite of Dickens and Mr. Chesterton, is not what it was, for its quondam victims, having fewer children and being less bound to their aunts' apron strings, go away to the seaside or stay at home and hide.

That is a general change, and many modern factors, such as travel, intercourse with strangers, emigration, have shown the family that there are other places than home, until some of them have begun to think that "east or west, home's worst."

There is a frigidity among the relations in the home, a disinclination to call one's mother-in-law "mother." Indeed, relations-in-law are no longer relatives; the two families do not immediately after the wedding call one another Kitty or Tom. The acquired family is merely a subfamily, and often the grouping resembles that of the Montagues and the Capulets, if Romeo and Juliet had married. Mrs. Herbert said charmingly in "Garden Oats," "Our in-laws are our strained relations."—W. L. George in Harper's Magazine.

How Centipedes Walk.

An eminent authority has investigated the peculiar wavy motion of centipedes and millepedes to determine the manner in which these animals manage to use their superabundant pedal extremities so gracefully and harmoniously. It has been found that the legs move in groups or waves, each wave including a definite number of legs. The number of waves included in the length of the body is constant for each species. In millepedes the waves of each side are synchronous. In centipedes they are symmetrically alternate, giving rise to beautifully accordant movements. The difference may be explained by suggesting that the millepede moves like a pacing horse, the centipede like a trotter.

WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES

The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.

We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for disorders of the stomach.

For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:—

"Newfield, N. Y.—'I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.'"

Mrs. BERT WILLIAMS, R. D. No. 29, Newfield, N. Y.

Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.
